Some great new releases this week:

First of all the new REDSHIFT album COLDER!!!, the recordings for HJ9.

I was at this festival and believe me this was a stunning performance.

Mark and Ian where in splendid form that day.

Also the release of Poland deluxe by Tangerine dream, we have copies instock!!

And we expect any day now the new JEROME FROESE - NIGHTSHADE FAMILY (LIVE ALBUM)

I have yet to hear it but I liked the stuff he did solo until now so should be good.

Also new albums by DITHMAR, FABER, NATTEFROST, HUMAN METRONOME, PRZEMYSŁAW RUDZ and NORAYANI.

We also have added two very special various artist albums.

VA - EM FOR LIFE a special benefit double cd for the victims of the catastrophe in Japan.

all revenues of the sales of this album will be going to help the survivors of this tragedy.

There are great names on this sampler and a double cd not to miss!!

And V/A - JOINT EFFORTS 'THE ALBUM' a sampler made by the members of the EMPortal.info

This sampler contains also some of the best EM Musicians around.

And we still have the offer that all costumers who bought a Groove Unlimited release in May this year get a 5% extra discount on any order from Groove releases even though we have lowered most of all Groove prices to $18.25 | £12.99 | €13.75.

We have also bought a great amount of overstock CD's, many of them only one copy.

Check the what's new page and look at the entries.

Thanks for your time.

Dear ex-KLEM members,

After all these years I have closed down Association KLEM fully.

This means that the website is stopped and the KLEM email addresses no longer exist.

If someone wants to reach me, please send me an analog letter or postcard with your email to:

Frits, Amstelsingel 7, 4105 GZ Culemborg, and I will give you my personal email adress for your own use.

The reason for this procedure is that on the KLEM email addresses I would get as many as 25 spam mails per day, so I want to avoid this for my personal email addresses.

Thank you for your understanding, and all the best from Culemborg
With cosmic greetings,
Frits

If you have an announcement or idea's about E-News just drop me a line ron@groove.nl

Nattefrost – repackaged (84456) in the year 2004 there were 2 nattefrost releases - both inspired by the ancient scandinavia. 'de som sejrede...' - an album of 10 great symphonic dark ambient tracks.

And the ep 'vejen til asgård'. Both sold out a few years ago - but now finally available again.

This time on 1 cd and with 2 previously unreleased bonus tracks. And, of course, digitally remastered.

----- r e v i e w s -----

Noryani – northeast 117 (81190) we take a sequential trip as soon as the first piece begins.

As far as famous synthesizer artists are concerned, there come bionight and paul nagle to ones mind here it is, a lonely snowy park, somewhere far away car- and neon-lights are shimmering, and this very place lives a life of its own, caught with a hidden synthesizer-oriented camera...

The second piece is quite rapturous, optimistic; such mid-tempo pace and sunrainy melodies are normally.

The shape of the third piece is marked by silence and pauses as well as by lurking sequential passages and some catchy tunes ? La vangelis (lets pay attention to the arrangements doesn't it all sound a bit as if it was blade runners twin?...

The fourth track is based on penetrative dark beams, whereby a kettle full of black ambient mass is boiling.

This would be an ingenious intro, and behold, it turns out to be a whole piece of music!

Apart from that, there appear some nice bass line sighs in the background until now its my favorite piece of the set.

Track five... Long shadowy sounds flow through space a bit as if it was some early vangelis record, and the main melody is here the jewel in the crown a gramophone recollection, a leaf found near the puddle in the park whose specific form reminds us of something nice, warm and long forgotten. Such is the atmosphere of this piece of music, yet another one among my favourites.

The swoopy percussion line could also be a work by spyra, another master of nostalgia with a bit of humor to it.

The sixth piece illustrates the question what is time? Quite well.

There they go, sombre and melancholic chords, accompanied by some murky background-sounds and an elegant trance percussion line.

This one is a very nice melange of empop and chilly electro in a navyblue-silvery organic mood.

Track seven brings some windy keyboards, while an electronic sandstorm is approaching.

An interesting way to serve electronic romanticism and a good deal of suspense.

In the eighth composition a catchy sequential riff appears, reminding me of the atmosphere of non-hit tracks from peter gabriels so.

Here we have nice singing drum patterns and a pleasant recurring melody.

The sequencer joins in and, after two minutes from the start, a trance beat-line.

Now there is pretty much going on at all levels, static keyboard soundscapes get mixed nicely with percussive dynamics.

At dawn we take a look through the window and see all the buildings and cars as if in a deformed negative photo as if it were the same as usual, and still, what an enthralling surprise!

Track nine is the final word. Soft guitar sounds as if from some other dimension, wax dawn mantra;

through the window we catch a glimpse of the snowy park from the opening track.

The street lamps fade out, night turns into bent cold dawn, we cannot be sure if it is a black garbage bag or a raven preparing to fly away, there, behind the bench, in this gloomy aura...

Such a beautiful piece of music to wake up with, an introduction to yet another snowy, frosty day.

A track I could compare this one with is thomas p. Heckmanns fantastic astral chains. Strongly recommended.

2011. Igor wróblewski

V/A - Joint efforts "the album" (33644)

Joint efforts - "the album" is the outcome of an idea born several years ago on the em forum emportal.info.

I'm personally not a fan of compilation-albums, and like only those, which feature unique tracks.

Fortunately, "the album" is an exception, as this double album contains all unique tracks in a whole range of styles. In addition, it offers the great opportunity to find out what's going on in the em scene since a couple of years.

In that perspective, this album is a great platform for the rather unknown electronic musicians from all over the globe to get their voice heard. There are 20 tracks in total, offering a very nice and accessible collection of contemporary electronics.

What all excellent produced pieces have in common is a comfortable and warm but also lively atmosphere.

Although many may know I have a preference for ambient space music (like the great vintage/classical ambiences of von haulshoven, polaris or alpha wave movement),

I also get a kick from up-tempo and very well sequenced pieces such as those by corporation or voynich, who are all featured on the first disc.

Disc two offers more recommended listening, of which I just swiftly like to mention the excellent rendered imaginary music by e.g.

Russell storey, chromengel and eric g. next to aem's peppy sequencer piece with strong retro flavours without omitting all the others.

© Bert strolenberg / www.sonicimmersion.org

Thanks and have a nice day.
